

ISSA Appoints Deutsche Bank's Paul Maley to its Board

Zurich / Frankfurt, 18 November 2022

ISSA is pleased to announce that Paul Maley, will be appointed to the Board of ISSA, effective immediately.

Based in London, Paul is the head of the Securities Services business at Deutsche Bank and he is also the regional Head of the DB's Corporate Bank for the UK and Ireland.

Paul began his career in 1998 based in Frankfurt working in Fixed Income Derivatives, but his career moved him to London and he worked in a number of client facing functions across the equities business. In 2004, he moved to New York to help revitalize the US Equity Derivative franchise and subsequently became the Head of Listed Derivatives for the Americas working within Deutsche Bank's Prime Finance business. On returning to London in 2014, Paul worked in the institutional client coverage organization before taking on his current responsibilities in 2020.

Phil Brown, ISSA Chairman, stated: "ISSA is delighted to welcome Paul to the Board. Paul is joining many of his peers who run the Securities Services businesses at their respective companies. As ISSA has re-established its relevance in the industry, it is key that the ISSA Board maintains its momentum. We want to grow the Association and ensure that all facets of the industry are represented to help improve client outcomes, reduce systemic risk, and increase efficiency – adding Paul to our Board will help ensure that we continue to deliver."

On accepting the nomination, Paul Maley said: "I am honoured to be joining the ISSA Board, I look forward to contributing to future strategy of the organisation and assisting ISSA to deliver on its mission representing the securities services industry."

Colin Parry, ISSA CEO